

Segment 1 — Score 1 or 2

"This is hard and you know it" Tone: Gentle, courageous, no false positivity. The quiz must feel like the first honest conversation they've had about this.

Set A — "The Quiet Crisis"

Q1 — The present state When you think about your relationship right now, the feeling that sits heaviest is ____ ← A loneliness that's strange because they're right there → A tiredness — like you've been trying for a long time

The first question names the two most common 1–2 states without drama. User feels immediately understood.

Q2 — The last time The last time you felt genuinely close to your partner was ____ ← Longer ago than you're comfortable admitting → Hard to remember clearly — which tells you everything

Both options are honest. Neither assigns blame. The second is more raw — user self-selects their depth.

Q3 — What broke down If you had to name the one thing that slowly changed between you two, it would be ____ ← You stopped really talking — conversations became logistics → You stopped choosing each other — it became automatic, not intentional

This question surfaces the root. Logistics drift vs. intentionality drift — two very different recovery paths.

Q4 — Your honest role When you reflect on where things are, you feel ____ ← Like you've tried — and you're not sure it's been enough → Like there are things you could have done differently that you haven't yet

Neither option blames the partner. Both ask the user to look inward. Rare for a relationship quiz — this is the moment of trust.

Q5 — The fear underneath The thing you're most afraid of right now is ____ ← That this becomes permanent — that this is just who you are now → That one of you will stop trying before the other is ready

The fear question. Naming it out loud is half the work. This is your emotional peak for Set A.

Q6 — What you still believe Even now, somewhere in you, you believe ____ ← This relationship has something worth fighting for → You're not sure yet — but you're here, which means something Option B is critical. It holds space for people who genuinely don't know. The app never forces false hope.

Q7 — Why you're here (the decider) You opened this app today because ____ ← You're not ready to give up — you just need somewhere to start → You want to understand what happened before you decide anything

Both options are valid acts of courage. This decider determines whether their type is anchored in hope or in clarity-seeking.

Set B — "The Honest Start"

Q1 — The distance The space between you and your partner right now feels ____ ← Like something drifted — slowly, quietly, without a single big moment → Like something broke — and neither of you has fully acknowledged it yet

Q2 — The communication reality When something hurts, you ____ ← Keep it inside — because saying it out loud feels like opening something you can't close → Say something — but it rarely comes out the way you meant it to

Q3 — The effort question Right now, the effort in your relationship feels ____ ← One-sided — and you're not sure which side you're even on anymore → Absent — like you've both gone quiet at the same time

Q4 — The last real moment The last time you felt truly seen by your partner was ____ ← A while ago — it happened, just not recently → You're struggling to think of a specific moment right now

Q5 — What you need most The one thing that could actually move something right now is ____ ← One real conversation — not a fight, just an honest one → One moment of feeling chosen — not out of habit, but on purpose

Q6 — The real question you carry The question you ask yourself most about this relationship is ____ ← Is this just a hard season — or have we become strangers? → Do they still see me — or just the version of me they got used to?

The most emotionally heavy question in the set. For 1–2 scorers, at least one of these will stop them cold.

Q7 — What brought you here (the decider) You're here because ____ ← Love is still there — it's just buried under everything else → You want to find out if love is enough to rebuild on

Segment 2 — Score 3, 4, or 5

"Something's off and you can feel it" Tone: Self-aware, honest, a little tender. Not in crisis — but in a place that needs attention. Questions that feel like a mirror, not a verdict.

Set A — "The Slow Drift"

Q1 — The current feeling When you're honest about your relationship right now, it mostly feels ____ ← Fine on the surface — but not quite what it used to be underneath → Like you're both waiting for something to shift, without saying it

Q2 — Where the disconnection lives The place you feel least connected to your partner is ____ ← In the everyday — the routines have replaced the real conversations → In the emotional — you talk, but you're not sure they really hear you

Q3 — The unspoken thing There is something between you right now that neither of you has said out loud. That thing is closer to ____ ← A low-level frustration that keeps recycling → Something you genuinely need that you haven't found the words for yet

This question unlocks Day 4's drop box. The user will arrive at Day 4 already thinking about this.

Q4 — Your instinct when things get tense When there's tension between you, your instinct is to ____ ← Address it — even imperfectly, even messily → Let it settle first — you need to process before you can speak

Q5 — The honest comparison Your relationship right now compared to a year ago is ____ ← Comfortable — which is good, but also a little too quiet → Different in a way you haven't fully named yet

Q6 — What's getting in the way The thing most coming between you and your partner right now is ____ ← Life — the pace, the stress, the endless list of things that aren't each other → Something between the two of you specifically — not external, internal

Q7 — What you actually want (the decider) What you actually want from this relationship right now is ____ ← To feel close again — not perfect, just genuinely close → To feel like you're both choosing this — not just maintaining it

Set B — "The Unsaid Things"

Q1 — The texture of things Your relationship right now feels most like ____ ← A song you both know but have stopped actually listening to → A conversation that keeps getting interrupted before it gets real

Q2 — The effort gap When you think about who tries harder to keep things connected ____ ← You feel like you're carrying slightly more than your share → You feel like you're both trying — just in different directions

Q3 — The last meaningful moment The last time you had a conversation that actually meant something was ____ ← Recently enough — but not as often as you'd like → Long enough ago that you feel it as a gap

Q4 — The irritant you don't mention The small thing that bothers you most — the one you never say — is ____ ← Feeling like you're not a priority when other things come up → Feeling like you have to manage your emotions before they feel safe to share

Q5 — The good that's still there Even at a 4 or 5, the thing that's still clearly there is ____ ← Care — you genuinely care about each other, even when it's hard → History — you've built something real, even if it needs attention right now

A deliberate warmth question mid-set. Even Segment 2 users need a moment of recognition.

Q6 — What started the slide If you traced back to when things started feeling less connected, it was probably ____ ← Gradual — no single moment, just a slow background drift → A specific period — something happened and the recovery was incomplete

Q7 — The real hope (the decider) The version of your relationship you still believe is possible looks like ____ ← Coming home to each other — not just to the same house → Talking the way you used to — before the filters went up

"Things are good — you want them to be great" Tone: Warm, curious, a little probing. The quiz deepens what's already there rather than diagnosing what's missing.

Set A — "The Good Place, Going Deeper"

Q1 — How you know it's working The clearest sign your relationship is in a good place right now is ____ ← The ease — things feel natural, comfortable, genuinely safe → The growth — you're both different people than when you started, in the best way

Q2 — Your love signature Your partner knows you love them most because of ____ ← The consistent small things you do without needing to be asked → The way you show up fully when something actually matters

Q3 — The honest nuance Even in a good relationship, the one thing you'd quietly change is ____ ← The depth of your conversations — more real, less routine → The frequency of intentional time — more chosen moments, fewer accidental ones

Q4 — How you handle the hard moments When something small creates friction between you ____ ← You address it quickly — you've learned not to let things accumulate → You give it space — you've learned that not everything needs a conversation

Q5 — The inside world you share The thing about your relationship that's only yours — that outsiders wouldn't understand — is ____ ← A private language — references, looks, words that belong only to the two of you → A way of being together that just works — hard to explain, obvious when you're in it

Q6 — What you protect most The thing you're most intentional about protecting in your relationship is ____ ← The quality time — not letting life quietly eat it all → The honesty — not letting comfort become performance

Q7 — Where you're headed (the decider) You and your partner are ____ ← Building something — there's a clear sense of direction and shared purpose → Enjoying something — the present is genuinely good and that's enough right now

Set B — "The Deeper Current"

Q1 — What makes it work At the core, your relationship works because ____ ← You're genuinely compatible — you want the same things in the same direction → You've worked at it — it's good because you've both chosen to make it good

Q2 — How you connect best You and your partner are most connected when ____ ← You're in motion together — doing something, going somewhere, in an experience → You're completely still — just present, no agenda, nowhere to be

Q3 — The growth edge If you were to identify the one area that could quietly make your relationship even better ____ ← It would be saying more of what you actually feel — not less → It would be doing more of what matters — not just what's convenient

Q4 — How your partner loves you Your partner shows love mostly by ____ ← Paying attention — remembering things, noticing things, being present → Acting — doing things, solving things, showing up in practical ways

Love language check — but framed as observation, not theory.

Q5 — The relationship you want to have The version of your relationship you're working toward is ____ ← One that keeps surprising you — that stays curious and alive → One that becomes unshakeable — deep roots, total trust, total ease

Q6 — Your real strength as a couple The thing you do best together — that you're quietly proud of — is ____ ← How you handle difficulty — you come out of hard things closer → How you enjoy each other — the lightness is real and it's rare

Q7 — What brings you here (the decider) You're using this app because ____ ← Something this good deserves to be actively looked after → You know that good relationships don't stay good without intention

Segment 4 — Score 8 or 9

"This is strong — and you want to go even deeper" Tone: Celebratory but probing. Confident and curious. Questions that honour what's there while gently asking what's underneath it.

Set A — "The Strong Foundation"

Q1 — What you've built Your relationship at 8 or 9 feels like ____ ← Something you grew — it took time and work and it shows → Something you found — a rare fit that you both recognised and held onto

Q2 — Your deepest comfort The thing that makes your relationship feel like home is ____ ← Being completely yourself — no performance, no editing, just you → Being completely safe — knowing they're there regardless of what comes

Q3 — The honest corner Even at an 8 or 9, the one thing you don't always say out loud is ____ ← How much you need to hear that you're valued — not assumed, actually said → How much you notice the small things they do — and how much it means

High scorers often have this gap — love assumed rather than expressed. This question surfaces it gently.

Q4 — Your conflict strength When you and your partner disagree, the thing you do best is ____ ← Come back to each other — the repair is always faster than the rupture → Stay fair — neither of you fights dirty, even when it's hard

Q5 — What you admire most The thing about your partner that you genuinely admire — that goes beyond love — is ____ ← The way they move through difficulty — their resilience quietly amazes you → The way they see the world — their perspective consistently surprises you

Q6 — The question you sit with Even in a strong relationship, the question you come back to privately is ____ ← Are we growing in the same direction — or has the direction quietly shifted? → Am I being the partner they actually need — not just the one I think I'm being?

The most introspective question in the high-score sets. Earns trust immediately.

Q7 — What you're protecting (the decider) At 8 or 9, what you're most committed to protecting is ____ ← The depth — the knowing-each-other that took years to build → The spark — making sure comfort never becomes invisible to each other

Set B — "The Close Look"

Q1 — The texture of your connection Your relationship right now feels most like ____ ← A well-worn favourite thing — comfortable, trusted, completely yours → Something still being discovered — familiar but not yet fully known

Q2 — How you stay close The thing that keeps you and your partner genuinely connected is ____ ← The way you communicate — honestly, often, even about the hard things → The way you prioritise each other — not by accident, by choice

Q3 — The small gap If there's one small thing slightly missing right now at an 8 or 9, it's ____ ← More spontaneity — things are good but slightly predictable → More depth in conversation — things are warm but sometimes surface-level

Q4 — How you know they love you You feel most loved by your partner when ____ ← They stop everything and are just completely there with you → They do something that proves they were thinking about you when you weren't around

Q5 — Your shared superpower The thing you two do better together than separately is ____ ← Handle hard things — you're each other's best thinking partner → Enjoy ordinary things — the mundane is genuinely good when they're in it

Q6 — The next level To move from an 8 to a 10, the thing that would make the most difference is ____ ← More honesty about the things you hold back even in a safe relationship → More presence — being together without the background noise of everything else

Q7 — Your relationship in one true sentence (the decider) The truest sentence about your relationship right now is ____ ← We've built something real — and I don't take that lightly → We're still building — and that's the part I love most

Segment 5 — Score 10

"You're at a 10 — let's find out if that holds" Tone: Warm, playful, a little cheeky. The quiz celebrates but also gently asks: is it 10 because it's genuinely extraordinary, or because you haven't looked too closely lately? No negativity — just depth.

Set A — "The Perfect Ten — Examined"

Q1 — The 10 check Your 10 is ____ ← Earned — you've done the work and this is what it feels like → Genuine — it's just always been this way and you're aware of how rare that is

The opening question holds the 10 with respect. Neither option doubts it — both take it seriously.

Q2 — What a 10 actually means When you say 10, you mean ____ ← Complete trust — you could say anything and know it would be held safely → Complete ease — being with them is the most natural thing in your life

Q3 — The honest fine print At a 10, the thing you still want more of is ____ ← Time — even at 10 the one currency you're always short of is uninterrupted time together → Expression — at 10 you sometimes assume they know things you haven't actually said

This question is the quiet reveal. Even 10s have this. It's not a flaw — it's just human.

Q4 — How you got here Your relationship is a 10 mostly because ____ ← You've navigated hard things together — the score reflects survival and growth → You simply work — the compatibility was always there and you both knew it

Q5 — The most alive moment Your relationship feels most alive when ____ ← You're in something new together — travel, decisions, adventures, firsts → You're in something completely ordinary — and it's still the best place to be

Q6 — What you know about 10s The thing you've learned about being at a 10 is ____ ← You can't assume it — you have to keep choosing it → It doesn't mean perfect — it means you'd choose this exact person in any version of your life

Q7 — The real question (the decider) You're using this app at a 10 because ____ ← The best thing you can do with something this good is pay attention to it → You want to know if your partner would give you the same number

The last option is the most powerful line in the entire quiz system. It plants the invite hook for every 10-scorer.

Set B — "The Deep Ten"

Q1 — Your version of 10 A 10 for you means ____ ← Feeling genuinely chosen — not just stayed with, but actively chosen every day → Feeling genuinely known — the real version of you, not the curated one

Q2 — What makes it 10 and not 9 The thing that pushes you from a 9 to a 10 is ____ ← Safety — you can be completely honest without calculating the risk first → Joy — there is a consistent lightness between you that you've never taken for granted

Q3 — The 10 you've noticed At a 10, the thing you notice most about your partner right now is ____ ← How much you still like them — separate from loving them, you genuinely like who they are → How much they've grown — you're with a different person than you started with, and they're better

Q4 — The question a 10 still holds Even at a 10, the question you occasionally ask yourself is ____ ← Am I growing as a partner at the same pace as this relationship deserves? → Are we saying the important things out loud — or just feeling them privately?

Q5 — The 10 in practice A 10 shows up in your daily life mostly as ____ ← A feeling — an underlying warmth that doesn't need a reason → A behaviour — the things you do automatically because this person matters

Q6 — Your honest contribution Your relationship is a 10 partly because you ____ ← Show up consistently — the reliability is real and it builds something solid → Stay curious — you haven't stopped wanting to know more about them

Q7 — What this app is for, at a 10 (the decider) The reason a 10 needs this app is ____ ← Because attention is how a 10 stays a 10 — not by accident → Because you want to find out what your partner's number is — and what it means if it's different
